Associated Press adds a bit of levity to the school business by finding a pied blend of two want ads in a Dallas newspaper which suggested topless dancers were being hired as DISD clerical workers.

It was not so, of course, and nothing need be said until 25 school teachers from a Dallas grade school waxed poetic.

The inadvertent combination of two ads appeared:

"Dancers Wanted
Exotic, Topless or Go-Go
Make up to $400 a week
Dallas Independent School District"

Twenty-five teachers from Dallas' Walnut Hill, who dubbed themselves "Walnut Hill Bunnies" responded to the superintendent:

"In reference to your ad, dear sir,
We'd like to state our cases.
Our qualifications need not deter--
We all have pretty faces.
On reflecting there are desirable features
In the idea of 'going native.'
Although we're all devoted teachers,
Dancing seems more remunerative.
So please consider our application.
We're qualified for the positions.
And in view of the nation's dire inflation,
We'll discard our inhibitions."

Not to be outpunned, Dallas Supt. Nolan Estes replied:

. . . ."You should be aware that I am personally handling all interviews in relation to this advertisement. I would be pleased to have you come in for a review, or should it be interview. . . .?"

THIS CAR became an inferno Saturday afternoon, causing the death of two small children from Maysfield. Another child is in critical condition in a San Antonio hospital. The fire started while the children's mother was in a local supermarket.

Fire Fatal To 2 Small Children

Two small Maysfield children are dead and a third is in critical condition following a fire which engulfed the interior of a parked car at a supermarket Saturday afternoon.

Dead are Christopher Jones, 2, and Gwendolyn Jones, 4. Scott Dewayne Jones, 5, is in Brooke Army Medical Center at San Antonio, suffering burns over 70 to 80 percent of his body.

The youngest child was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Edward Hospital after he was removed from the car, and Gwendolyn died early Sunday in the burn ward of the hospital in San Antonio.

The three were left in the car at about 4 p.m. while their mother, Mrs. Betty Jones of Maysfield and Richard Sims, owner of the car, were shopping inside Keith's Minimax. The fire was discovered and reported by an unidentified woman. Volunteer firemen removed the children from the car.

All three children were taken to St. Edward Hospital by a Marek-Burns-Laywell ambulance. Gwendolyn and Scott were flown by U. S. Army helicopter Saturday evening to the burn center at Brooke Hospital. A spokesman at St. Edward said the children had suffered third-degree burns over 70 to 80 percent of their bodies.

Cause of the fire, which completely destroyed the interior of the car, was undetermined.

County Will Join Hill Country Group

The county will join the Hill Country Community Action Association following action by commissioners in a regular meeting Monday morning.

It is understood that joining the association will cost nothing to the county, and the county will be able to take advantage of various government programs available to governments which belong to community action groups.

It was noted that the county lost the emergency food and drug program in force several years ago because it was not a member of a community action program.

Four representatives from Alcoa's Rockdale Works, including Fred Bergeron, plant manager, appeared before commissioners to review a resolution adopted by the court in September, 1973 which would enable the county to issue $11,000,000 in revenue bonds to be reimbursed by the company for financing pollution control projects at the works.

Bergeron explained that if the county were to issue tax exempt revenue bonds to finance the equipment at the Alcoa plant, the bonds and all direct and overhead expenses would be reimbursed by the company.

The resolution and any future negotiations are in accordance with terms of the Texas Clean Air Financing Act of 1973 and the Regional Waste Disposal Act permitting certain governmental sub-divisions to aid industries in financing air and water pollution abatement projects.

Two pollution abatement projects are planned by Alcoa at the Rockdale Works and Bergeron said equipment for the projects has been ordered and the plant expects to see completion of the projects in mid-1975.

Bergeron also explained that having the county issue the bonds permits Alcoa to get money for the projects at a lower interest rate.

In other business, commissioners set official holidays for county employees as New Years Day, Good Friday (half-day), Memorial Day, July 4, Johnson's birthday, Labor Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Annual Banquet Set For Local Chamber

The annual banquet for the Cameron Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday, March 14, Gene Blake, Chamber president, announced.

Highlight of the evening will be an address by the Hon. George Nigh, Lt. Governor of Oklahoma. "We were fortunate to secure Lt. Gov. Nigh as our guest speaker and we are expecting some of our own state's dignitaries to be in attendance."

Special recognition is planned to honor all past presidents of the Cameron Chamber and the evening will be climaxed with the presentation of the annual McCullin award to the outstanding citizen for 1973.

New directors and officers of the Chamber for 1974 will assume their duties at this time.

Tickets for the banquet will go on sale soon and those planning to attend are encouraged to purchase their tickets early. The banquet will be held at the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Nomination forms have been distributed to all civic clubs and organizations for use in submitting a nomination for the McCullin civic award. The award is given annually to the outstanding citizen who has devoted his or her energies and interests in the civic betterment of Cameron.

The award was started by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McCullin Sr. who donated the loving cup which accompanies the award each year.

Three categories are used as the basis for selection: contribution to the spiritual life of the community, influence for good of community youth, and contribution to civic, cultural, and commercial life of the community.

Making the final decision will be a secret selection committee composed of representatives from organizations who submit a nomination. The award will be presented by Ed Laywell, 1972 recipient at the Chamber banquet.

Illness Closes Rosebud Schools

The Rosebud-Lott schools were closed Monday after illness sent about 20 percent of the enrollment home by the end of the day.

The schools had many students become ill and go home throughout Monday, most of them in the secondary school. School Supt. Earl Cook Jr. said that at the end of the school day, about 20 percent of his students were absent. After consulting with a physician, Cook said he decided that closing the schools would be in the best interests of the students and schools' economy.

Since the state funds teachers' salaries are based on the annual average daily attendance (ADA), a significant drop in attendance can endanger the alloted faculty salaries to a school district.

Kubiak Sees End To State Property Tax

Adoption of the work of the Constitutional Convention Education Committee will bring about the abolishing of state property tax, according to Rep. Dan Kubiak, chairman of the committee.

Rep. Kubiak said this would be done by setting up a Special Higher Education Assistance Fund in the state's general revenue treasury to replace the 10-cent per $100 value tax now in effect.

He reported this week that the committee has completed nearly all of its work at the convention.

"After hundreds of hours of work we have produced constitutional provisions which I believe will give many future generations of Texans a public school system and a higher education program of equality and excellence second to none in this nation." Kubiak said.

In the area of primary and secondary public education, Kubiak said his committee in two simple sentences spelled out the goals for the future of public schools in Texas:

". . . the legislature shall provide for a system of free public schools through the secondary level that will furnish each individual equal educational opportunity. In distributing state support of the free public schools, the legislature shall ensure that the quality of education made available shall not be based on wealth other than the wealth of the state as a whole.'

Kubiak said the major concern centered in devising an unbreakable constitutional guarantee that all of the state's colleges and universities will have equal access to means of meeting future needs.

"Stated briefly , our decision was to leave the Permanent Fund of the University of Texas and Texas A&M University as they are and to set up another fund of equal importance for the rest of the schools," he added.

He explained that the Permanent Fund of UT and A&M amounts to more than $600 million and its investments produce about $33 million a year for these schools' available budgets. The 22 other schools in the past have had to depend on the 10-cent property tax, but under the committee's recommendations will share in general treasury money a dedicated annual appropriation equal to the UT and A&M income.

Phone Growth Remains Healthy In Cameron

Despite recession clouds on the horizon, telephone growth in Cameron is expected to remain healthy following a strong 1973, says Dennis Richter, manager for Southwestern Bell.

"Telephones in the city total 3,700 a 5 per cent increase over 1972," said Richter. "That's part of 300,000 telephones gained statewide in 1973."

Richter said if the energy crisis doen't cause a sharp decline in economic activity," we may well need an 8 to 10 per cent increase in construction dollars for Texas in 1974 over what we spent in 1973. This year we'll be spending $10 million a week in Texas to expand and improve telephone service, all of which can affect telephone service in Cameron."

Daily calls in Cameron in 1973 exceeded 17,300 , a 10 per cent increase over the previous year, Richter said.

Cameron Man Shot To Death Near Rogers

A Cameron man was shot to death Sunday afternoon after an apparent family argument erupted in gunfire in the Rogers area. The slain man's father-in-law has been charged with murder.

Dead of multiple gunshot wounds was Ruben M. Vega, about 26, of Cameron. Vega was pronounced dead at 3 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Joe Harrison, who ordered an autopsy.

Charged before Harrison with murder in connection with the shooting was Ignacio Martinez, 55, of Rt. 1, Rogers. Martinez later was freed on $2,500 bond.

Bell County Sheriff Lester Gunn said the shooting occurred shortly after 2 p.m. on Martinez' farm about five miles west of Rogers in the vicinity of Reed's Lake.

Gunn said Vega's body was found between a tractor shed and a barn about 150 feet from the house. Gunn said Vega had been shot three times in the abdomen and once in the arm with a .32 caliber pistol and once in the head with a .22 caliber rifle.

Gunn said Vega had been married to Martinez' daughter but was separated from her. Vega's wife and two children were living with her father, Gunn said.

Rogers City Election

Rogers city election has been called by the city council for April 6. Terms expiring include those of councilmen Dale Henderson, Billy Ray Crow, and Dean Gommert.

Board Tables Principals' Contracts

Cameron trustees postponed until next month the contracts for school principals following discussion Monday evening at a regular meeting which drew about 65 teachers and patrons.

Under question is the decision to shelve Junior High School Principal Bill Huffman's contract, suggested by incoming Supt. Marvin Crawford, who will take office in July. It was brought out at the meeting that Crawford asked the board if he could bring in several people of his own choosing to assume posts on the local schools.

The decision to postpone acting on renewal or shelving of contracts was made after board president Calvin Cobb remarked that Crawford could not know the effect his decision would have on the schools and the community.

This was after numerous people spoke before the board in Ben Milam cafeteria, where the meeting was moved because of the large crowd.

Both teachers and laymen spoke for Huffman, praising his work at school and in civic affairs of the community. General consensus was, "If you have something good, why get rid of it."

Some of those speaking for Huffman were Gene Smitherman, Charles Kunz, Miss Mary Belle Batte, Kenneth Freeman, Jeff Webster, James Hudson, Mrs. Joe Walzel, Pete Kunz and Roger Williams, among others.

Huffman also spoke, saying he had been "treated unjustly," and that he "feels I am destroyed in this community." Allusions were made to various accusations and rumors by Huffman and some of the spokesmen.

Huffman said it was "unethical for a man (the new superintendent) to do--take a quick look and shove somebody out." He said that if any of the accusations were true, Supt. Dodson would have "called me in and told me to straighten up my life."

Supt. Dodson told the gathering that the school does have a problem, but he feels that the thing will "work itself out." He noted that a superintendent's prerogative is to work with principals, and the matter under question was "blown out of proportion."

Board member Billy Hornung noted that anytime there is a change at the top, be it business or otherwise, other things will change. He also explained that the board gets both sides of a question.

Cobb told the gathering that Crawford had been highly recommended for the job, and had been chosen from a number of candidates.

Jack Chubb, principal of Yoe High, expressed concern about his contract, which has one year to run.

It was suggested that the board meet with Crawford to discuss the matter before any principals contracts were acted upon. The board voted to do so.

In other action, trustees voted to expell for the rest of the semester a high school student who was accused of stabbing another student in the back with a seam ripper on Jan. 16. The boy appeared at the meeting with several relatives and friends, who spoke in his behalf.

Supt. Dodson reported that restrooms at Ada Henderson School are completely renovated at a cost of about $6,000. He also reported that work is continuing on construction of the new field house near Yoe Field.

A leave of absence was granted to Mrs. Mary Arthur and a request from KMIL was approved for broadcasting the high school baseball games this summer.

Yoe Principal Jack Chubb reported that one drivers education class has been filled and he is trying to get a driving teacher for a second class.

Frank Luecke, Cameron Herald editor-publisher, asked the board to consider payment for students to attend a performance of the Dallas Symphony, due to appear in March. The board agreed to encourage purchase of tickets throughout the system, and to allow students to be excused from classes to attend.

Trustees voted to employ the following Title I personnel: Louise Dodson, Lois Gunn, Darlene Burleson, Shirley Crook, Mildred Hanel, Eleanor Hollas, Jean Krall, Doris Lafferty, Delois Obermiller. Janice Stanislaw, Willie Mae Wieser, and teachers, Linda Foster and Peggy Nelson.

No Rationing In Texas...

The Governor sees no rationing for Texas.

In view of state-by-state gasoline rationing being announced daily, it might be unexpected. But in view of Texas' prolific production of the stuff, it would seem ridiculous to pump so much production beyond our borders and find only minimum amounts available here.

Mr. Nixon is pleading for international oil unity while France is going its merry, high-rolling ways with Arab oil.

Mr. Briscoe is pushing the oil issue as one of the most vital facing Texas, which it is, but above all others, which it is not.

Washington, D. C. is now getting rationing, which is justice since so much oil industry and political oversight brought on the dilemma in the first place.

The weather and Americans have been responding to avoid rationing like World War II, though coupons are being printed. But a number of cold-weather states are instituting rationing because of high consumption of fuel oil.

Milder the climate or the more abundant natural gas, the less likelihood of rationing there is. And so Governor Briscoe sees no rationing for Texas, whose conservation programs in U. S. petroleum programs is the model.

It would be odd for people to drive through Texas oil fields, running out of gas while the stuff pulses from nearby ground.

Downtown Action...

The frontend of the old McLane Bldg. came out at mid-week, giving a clear view of Little River Valley for perhaps the first time in three-quarters of a centurn from Courthouse Square.

Fill dirt is going into the jail building adjacent to the old wholesale grocery building coming out.

The mall-fountain area is shaping up and the downtown is fast shaping into one of symmetry and clean, modern lines.

If patterns hold true, this kind of development will continue to ring outward from the newly paved downtown area, after all curbing and pavement are in place.

People will want better paving between the downtown area and Fourth Street (US 77 - SH 36- US 190). They will want curbing on streets feeding into the new streets with curbs.

The example, and a fine one downtown, is set, and the whole Cameron commercial area will continue to seek improvement.

But for now, there's a lot going on where the downtown action is.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

USING U.S. GAS TO TRAIN ARAB PILOTS

Rep. Jerry Litton (Mo.) . . . On December 18, 1973, I discovered that Trans World Airlines was providing fuel for the training of Saudi Arabian pilot trainees in my State while the Saudi Arabian Government was participating in an embargo of petroleum exports to the United States. Since then I have learned that a second American commercial airline, Pacific Southwest Airlines, has also been training pilots for Saudi Arabia.

The real shocker came, however, this week when the U.S. Air Force admitted to me that it was currently training four Saudi Arabian pilots at Williams Air Force Base, Ariz. I also understand that one of the Saudi pilots trainees is the nephew of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

The confirmation on December 18 concerning the training of Saudi pilots with American fuel caused me to send a telegram to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) requesting that they reexamine and, if necessary revoke their previous support of a management training contract between TWA and the Saudi Government . . .

The CAB informed me they were passing the buck to the State Department . . .

I submit to you and to the other Members of the House of Representatives that there is a matter of principle involved . . . when Arabs do not appear to care about the health and security of the American people and when, as a result our Government does not have the backbone or nerve to disallow the use of American fuel for the direct benefit of the Arabs, then I think it is time that the Government of this great land take a hard look at itself and decide whether it believes in or rejects a doctrine of fair and just treatment . . .

It is cerainly not fair and just that we be deprived of oil which we so badly need when our own Government condones the use of American fuel for the training of pilots from an embargoing nation . . ."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

If the commercial airlines and the U.S. Air Force have a contract to train Saudi Arabian pilots, the contract should contain a cancellation clause.

Will King Faisal's boys be entitled to American gasoline rationing stamps?

Plenty Action Develops For May 4 Primary

Plenty of action for the May 4 Democratic primary developed just before last week's filing deadline.

Mrs. Frances "Sissy" Farenthold got into the governor's race against Gov. Dolph Briscoe, and promptly filed a $3 million lawsuit, alleging he accepted illegal campaign contributions.

Houston lawyer Donald B. Yarbrough filed against State Treasurer Jesse James. Herbert "Peanut" Schroeder of Columbus challenged Agriculture Commissioner John C. White; and C. A. Kelly of San Antonio took on Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace.

A three-way Democratic race of comptroller was on schedule long before the filing deadline, with Bob Bullock and Howard Edburg of Austin and Buddy F. Kirk of Houston the candidates. Comptroller Robert S. Calvert is retiring.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Attorney General John Hill, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, Railroad Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon and top appellate judges escaped Democratic opposition. But all incumbent statewide officials (except the judges) will get Republican opposition in November.

Republicans have contests for governor: Hank Grover of Houston, Jim Granberry of Lubbock and Odell McBrayer of Fort Worth; for lieutenant governor: Gaylor Marshall of Dallas and Troy Skates of Austin; and for railroad commissioner: Dale W. Steffes of Houston and John Hall of Weatherford.

Other Republican statewide candidates include Tom Cole of Houston for attorney general; Nicholas Rowe of McAllen for comptroller; Mrs. Mary Lou Grier of Boerne for land commissioner; Robert G. Holt of Amarillo for treasurer; Zack Fisher of Memphis for agriculture commissioner and Joe Cain of Houston for railroad commissioner against Langdon.

Raza Unida Party fielded Ramsey Muniz for governor and Fred Garza for Railroad Commissioner.

CONVENTION MOVES ON — Constitutional Convention delegates are making major decisions in committees as their work product nears the floor voting stage.

One of the big votes in the Education Committee was for retention of the $680 million permanent University Fund for use of the University of Texas and Texas A&M University.

Voting rights (postponed due to a last-minute committee hangup) and education proposals are expected to be considered by the full convention late this week.

Presiding Officer Price Daniel Jr. said the convention probably will be voting every day next week, and committees which have not finished their work will have to hold night sessions.

TRUCKERS IRATE — Unhappy Texas truck drivers called on Governor Briscoe for aid in getting diesel fuel prices rolled back.

In an effort to end their strike, Briscoe dispatched an aide to Washington to confer with Federal Energy Administrator William Simon on the situation.

The governor's aide, James Rose, said his mission was "simply to convey (the truckers') position to federal agencies and congressmen."

Texas truckers also demanded an increase in the speed limit between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

COURTS SPEAK— The State Supreme Court affirmed a trial court verdict that the City of San Antonio does not owe hotel operators damages because a parking garage hampered access to their hotel.

Former House Speaker Gus Mutcher's appeal from a bribery conspiracy sentence (five years probated) will be heard by Texas Court of Criminal Appeals April 10 or 17.

The Supreme Court threw out a 150-day sentence for contempt of court assessed Jody Martin Parr, wife of Duval County Judge Archer Parr, because the punishment was increased without hearing.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

To keep from getting in a rut a person ought to have more than one item to worry about, no sense spending all your time on the energy crisis or Watergate or the Middle East when there are other things needing worrying about too.

For example, take the problem of an office-holder's papers. When a man stays in office a long time he accumulates a lot of papers, excusing those he's thrown away for reasons I won't go into -- how do Iknow what his wife or a prosecuting attorney might be interested in? -- and a certain valus is then placed on them by an appraiser.

Now I have never understood how a man can become an expert appraiser of an office-holder's papers, especially without reading them, but it's done all the time, as some office-holders' papers have run into the millions of documents and it'd take two or three lifetimes to get through them all, not counting those who fell out from boredom.

After thinking this over I have concluded that the appraising system is unfair. One appraiser might say the papers are worth $500,000, another might say they're worth $12.40. It's like two psychiatrists studying a criminal. One says he's sane, the other, with a degree from the same university, says he's insane. Don't know where the criminal went to school, could have been the same university too, depending on whether he was convicted of mugging, perjury, bank embezzlement, obstruction of justice, or cheating on his income tax.

No, there has to be at better way of deciding what an office-holder's papers are worth in dollars and cents, as over the years stretching ahead thousands and thousands of Congressmen, Senators, Governors, Presidents, Cabinet officers Generals, Mayors, etc. will be leaving office as age or the voters overtake them.

The answer is simple. Do not try to decide what the papers are worth historically, after all you're supposed to leave something for historians to do, but decide only what they're worth in cash at the time they're handed over to whoever has room for the. And the way to do that is to weight them. Put them on the scales. Right now scrap paper is bringing $1.35 a hundred pounds. Your papers say weight 9 tons. That's 18,000 pounds, and the cash value comes to $243. If you're just a one-ton man, your papers are worth $27. Won't do on down to Congressmen and Mayors as I never was any good at fractions.

Generally people make too big a deal out of what ought to be a simple matter.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

CTC Offers Insurance Course

Central Texas College is offering an eight-week, sixteen hour non-credit short course explaining the "ins and outs" of insurance. The class will meet on Monday evenings from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. beginning February 18, 1974, and ending April 15, 1974

William C. Ferebery, a graduate of Texas Christian University, will be in instructor. The course, which will be taught for laymen, will cover concepts in purchasing automobile, life, and homeowner insurance, as well as general principles in buying any type of insurance.

The average American family spends approximately $500 or more each year for insurance - yet, when they need it most, many people find that their insurance is almost worthless.

Interested persons should contact the Evening College Office of Central Texas College at 526-1226 or 526-1227 from 10:00 a.m . to 10p.m.

THE BACKBONE'S CONNECTED TO THE...

Three fourths of all products shipped in America move over the highways . . . and 90% of all the people who travel . . . drive. Highways are the backbone of our total transportation system. But — the backbone's connected to airports in the state . . .

to city and intercity bus lines . . .
to the railroads . . .
to waterways . . .

We do more good for ourselves in our personal and business lives, if we believe in improvement and integration of each of the important parts of our transportation network.

In our state the backbone's connected . . . and lets keep it that way.

Cotton Module Operations Increase Ginning Capacity

DALLAS

Cotton module operations increase ginning capacity, making harvesting operations more efficient, according to five southern cotton producers reporting on their use of the system during a Cotton Incorporated seed cotton handling and storing seminar here.

Billy Percy, a producer-ginner from Greenville, Miss., said that using the cotton module system in his operation increased the ginning capacity by more than 60 per cent, enabled cotton pickers to work without any down-time , and increased seed production by more than 70 per cent.

Percy said his gin, rated at 6 to 7 bales an hour, normally gins 4,000 to 4,500 bales from the production of his farm and that of one other farmer. But with the module builder system this year, Percy said he ginned more than 7,000 bales, of which some 5,500 were stored in modules.

"The gin's efficiency was improved and it was much easier to gin off the pallets than cotton trailers," he said. "The modules had more even compaction for better suction.

"With an old gin like ours -- worth only $20,000 on the market -- this module system increased capacity to a 12-bale an hour gin," Percy said.

Percy reported that the operation ran without any picker down-time for the first time in several years and lengthen the season, giving the gin's labor about an extra month of work.

The amount of planting seed produced from the cotton production was the most the gin operation had ever had, Percy said. "With the module system we delivered 1,000 tons of planting seed and have another 1,000 tons stored."

Joe Smilie, agricultural engineer with Louisiana State University, said that Louisiana farmers using the module system were reporting ginning increases from one to two bales an hour, with on ginner reporting a four-bale-an hour increase.

Smilie said farmers reported few problems with the system, and quality of cotton in modules was mostly about the same or better than cotton hauled directly to the gin in trailers. Indicating good ginner interest in the module system was the fact that 87 per cent of module builders in Louisiana were owned by ginners or farmers having an interest in a gin.

Ro Wicker, a Seagraves, Tex., producer, said the most efficient operation for him employed one module builder and three cotton strippers.

He said that transporting the modules to the gin was satisfactory and that in time the waiting loss would be cut to a minimum as more growers go to the module system.

Jimmy Sanford, from McQueen Smith Farms, Inc., at Prattville, Ala., said that the module system was more economical than cotton trailers and allowed more efficient delivery of cotton.

Sanford cited data taken on the McQueen Smith farms showing that 21 modules delivered to the gin contained 192 bales of cotton. A similar number of wagons delivered 100 bales. The module cotton got the better value rate.

County Approved For Cyanide Gun

Milam County, along with 43 other Texas counties, has been approved for a program for experimental use of the sodium cyanide spring loaded gun.

The program will be directed by the Texas Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas AG Experiment Station.

The county agent in each county will serve as county coordinator. He will be charged with assemblying program data and the training activities to qualify these farmers and ranchers.

Farmers, Fishermen Face Tax Deadline

Farmers and fishermen face a March 1 tax return filing deadline, according to the Internal Revenue Service, unless they filed quarterly declarations and paid estimated tax for 1973.

"Other taxpayers with two-thirds of their income from farming and fishing have the same deadline," Richard J. Stakem, Jr., district director for the Internal Revenue Service for southern Texas, said.

He noted that the box on Schedule E should be checked indicating that two-thirds of the gross income is derived from farming and fishing.

"Otherwise," he explained, "estimated tax penalty notices may be mailed to some farmers and fishermen creating an unnecessary exchange of correspondence."

"If the special box on Schedule E is checked," he said, "the taxpayer should refer to his tax instruction to see if farming and fishing income is to be reported on Form 4835."

Pork Valentine

Take advantage of this sentimental occasion and play cupid at dinner. Stuffed butterfly pork chops will win your Valentine's admiration. Besides being double thick chops of tender, lean pork from the boneless loin, their shape resembles the big red heart of this special day. Fill the pockets in the chops with your favorite bread or rice stuffing, lightly brown and braise until done.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES---

Growers Urged To Attend Sorghum Meeting

By Bill McCutchen

In looking at the futures markets and local contract prices, grain sorghum is going to be worth producers doing the best production job possible this year.

If you want to catch up on the latest in varieties, weed control, fertilization, diseases and resistance, and insect control measures plan to make the meeting in Cameron on Thursday February 14.

Even if the weather is excellent and you could be farming consider making this meeting as the information presented will be well worth the time spent.

The Milam County Crops Committee and the Milam Farm Bureau are Co-sponsoring this Grain Sorghum Production meeting for the benefit of local producers. The meeting will be from 1:30 to 4:30 at the Farm Bureau office in Cameron.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service Grain Sorghym team of Ben Spears, agronomist, Dr. Charles Cole, entonologist, and Dr. Chips Lee, plant pathologist, will present the program.

Grain Sorghum planting time is about here, so plan to start the 1974 crop off right by catching up on the latest in production information Thursday afternoon.

Fruit Tree Management

If buds on your fruit trees have not begun to swell you may yet have time to make a dormant oil application to control scab and peach leaf curl.

If you have missed this application you still have time to get started on an insect and disease control program starting in the pink bud stage on peaches and plums. MP-999 Texas Guide for controlling insects and diseases on fruits and nuts outlines the spray programs and materials to use.

These publications are available from the County Extension Office in Cameron. We will mail you a copy on request or you can stop by the office.

Rose Care

Hybrid tea roses need a heavy pruning about mid-February of each year. This heavy pruning results in fewer flowers, but size and quality will be much better.

The top growth should be cut back to 12 to 15 inches above the ground. Keep four to six healthy canes about six inches above the bud or graft union. Remove all dead, diseased and injured twigs and branches as well as all of the thin, spindly growth that is frequently found at the base of old, established plant.

Start your prevention disease control program against black spot as soon as plants begin growing in the spring and continue every two weeks until frost.

Farm Bureau Urges No Export Restrictions

The Texas Farm Bureau is urging President Nixon and Congress to resist any efforts to place restrictions on farm exports.

A resolution adopted by the TFB Board of Directors this week and sent to the President and members of the Texas delegation Congress states that "agricultural exports are absolutely essential to farmers and ranchers and are vitally important to the nation as a whole."

The resolution said that "embargoes placed on any commodities are invitations to economic disaster."

Text of the resolution continues:

"Loss of our farm export market would force us to cut production by one-fifth Thousands of rural people would flock to cities. Workers in industries related to agriculture would flood the labor market looking for jobs

"On the other hand, if we can maintain our strong export market all segments of the economy will reap the benefits.

"Full production, which is dependent upon exports, enables us to cut per unit costs. This is reflected in lower prices in supermarkets and clothing stores. The consumer is the ultimate and major beneficiary. Full production in agriculture assures jobs in businesses related to agriculture. Nearly 40 percent of our work force is involved directly or indirectly in agriculture.

"Farm exports are a principal source of this Nation's foreign exchange, and have helped give us a favorable balance of trade for the first time since 1970.

"Because of the importance of our overseas markets, the Texas Farm Bureau strongly urges that the President and Congress resist any efforts to restrict farm exports."

Pregnancy Testing Clinics Planned

Texas livestock producers will have an opportunity to attend one of 13 clinics on artificial insemination and pregnancy determination throughout the state during 1974.

The week-long clinics are a joint effort of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the American Breeders Service and provice actual field training in AI and pregnancy testing in addition to detailed information on managing the breeding herd.

According to John Beverly animal reproduction specialist for the Extension Service, information is also presented on disease prevention, selection of breeding animals, record keeping and nutrition requirements of breeding animals.

Numbers Down, Value Up . . . Feed Grain Stocks . . . See Your County Agent . . . Red Meat Production Declines.

While the number of sheep and goats in Texas is about the same now as a year ago, the number of sheep farms in the state dropped 1,000 compared to a year ago and 2,500 compared to two years ago.

All sheep and lambs in the state totaled 3,200,000 head, about the same as a year ago. The number of sheep farms in Texas is estimated at 12,500, compared to 13,500 a year ago and 14,500 two years ago.

The number of goats and kids on Texas farms and ranches as of January 1 was 1,350,000, down 16 per cent from a year ago.

Nationwide, the inventory of all sheep and lambs is down seven per cent from a year ago. Texas has about 20 per cent of all sheep and lambs in the nation.

The total value of all sheep and lambs at $32.70 per head means a combined value of more than half a billion dollars. A year ago, the value was $468,000,000, or an average of $26.40 per head.

STOCKS of the four feed grains--corn, barley, oats, and grain sorghum--totaled 288,000,000 bushels in Texas, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

Wheat stocks held in all positions are estimated at 53,000,000 bushels compared with 87,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Grain sorghum stocks are set at 233,000,000 bushels, down 242,000 bushels from a year ago.

Corn stocks at 37,800,000 bushels compared with 25,800,000 bushels a year ago.

Nationwide, January 1 stocks of all grains except grain sorghum and soybeans were below year earlier levels. Stocks of the four feed grains were seven per cent below those of a year ago.

FORTY-FOUR are approved for use of the M-44 cyanide chemical control device. Livestock producers in 44 Texas counties can use the M-44 provided they meet certain qualifications.

Producers in the 44 counties can use the M-44 provided they attend a training school on use of the M-44, and then provide records of experience with use of the device.

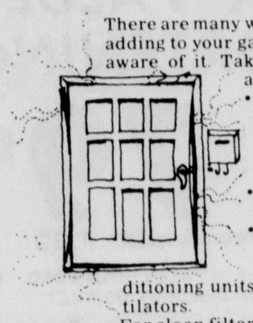
Counties which are approved for the experimental predator control program are Cottle, King, Dickens, Borden, Scurry, Mitchell, Taylor, Callahan, Midland, Glasscock, Sterling, Coleman, Crane, Upton, Jeff Davis, Pecos, Presidio, Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Bexar, McCulloch, San Saba, Mills, Stephens, Erath, Brown, Comanche, Hamilton, Bosque, Coryell, Lampasas, Bell, McLennan, Burnet, Williamson, Hood, Milam, Jim Wells, Nueces, Kleberg, Kenedy, Brooks, and Willacy.

Check with your county agent for complete details on a training school in your county if you wish to use the M-44 in predator control.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is in charge of the program on a state level. Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said the experiment will help the $85,000,000 sheep and goat industry in Texas stay in existence. "The project also means more suits, sweaters, and lamb chops for the consumer" he said.

COMMERCIAL slaughter plants in Texas produced 169,200,000 pounds of red meat during December, 1973. This is down eight per cent from the previous month and four per cent below the total produced a year ago.

A house full of ways to save on your gas bill....



There are many ways you could be adding to your gas bill, and not be aware of it. Take a few minutes and: Check:

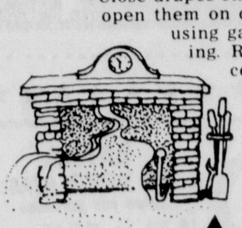
- Insulation, weather stripping and/or caulking around doors and windows.
- Fireplace damper for tight fit.
- For holes and leaks around window air conditioning units and roof-top ventilators.
- For clean filters regularly.
- Gas appliances periodically for proper adjustments.

Do:

- Close drapes on sunny days and open them on dark ones, when using gas air conditioning. Reverse this process when using gas furnace.
- Leave thermostat at comfortable setting.
- Drain approximately one gallon of water per month from water heater to prevent mineral deposits from building up.
- Repair leaky hot water faucets.
- Use lids for pots and pans to reduce need for higher flame.

Don't:

- Run partial loads in dryers, washing machines or dishwashers.
- Block air conditioning vents, or in the case of heating, the hot air vents.
- Cool or heat unused rooms.
- Use higher flame on range than required.
- Pre-heat the oven any longer than necessary.



These tips will not only help you to reduce your gas bill, but help you to conserve our country's energy too.

FROZEN FOOD CONVENIENCE

Did you know we ate well over 60 pounds of frozen foods per person last year? That is a lot of frozen food! Our nearest competitor was the British who consumed over ten pounds per person.

Frozen foods are one of our biggest time savers. Their chief appeal, in addition to saving time, is in convenience, and as out-of-season treats, such as corn-on-the cob and strawberries in the winter. They are economically priced, too. More than 250 new items are introduced each year, but only about ten find permanent places in the growing family of frozen foods.

Compare prices between fresh, frozen and canned foods to get the most from your shopping dollar. Remember to do so on a "per serving" basis. Usually a 10-ounce package of frozen vegetables offers the same number of servings as a 16-ounce can or one pound of fresh.

Choose those packages that are very firm, with no discoloration, which indicates thawing and refreezing. Learn to recognize the other signs of defrosting such as sweating, ice coated, wet or limp packages. While the contents are probably safe, there can be some loss of quality. Keep the foods firmly frozen until ready to serve.

If a package does defrost, it can be quickly refrozen safely if the product is still ice cold to the touch. Then plan to use that item within two or three weeks. Fully defrosted foods should be used as soon as possible.

When properly processed, packaged and stored, frozen foods will keep for many months. At zero degrees, vegetables and fruits should keep well for 9-12 months. I like to mark the purchase date on my packages to remind me which ones to use first.

To conserve fuel, cook your favorite frozen vegetable in the oven along with the meat. Put the vegetable in a shallow glass dish, season and cover. Added water is not necessary. Bake at 375 degrees for about 30 minutes or until tender.

Art Center Features Caldwell

GEORTETOWN

The February exhibit in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University features more than 60 works of Neil Caldwell, artist-lawyer-politico of Brazoria County and Austin, annouces Claude Kennard, Director of the Gallery in the School of Fine Arts.

Included among the works in this premier showing by this versatile and accomplished artist are paintings, sculpture, photography, drawings -- all representing various stages of his art work during the past 20 years.

Some of his sculpture and sketches include busts and drawings of famous (and infamous) people --including the late President John F. Kennedy, the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, Dean Rusk, Conrad Adenaur, Joan Sutherland, Nat Turner, former Governor John Connally (who was so moved at the unveiling of his sculpture in the Texas Legislature that he waxed eloquently and extemporaneously on the subject of art for 30 minutes), and numerous other figures.

The Beckhusens watched the parade of over 4,000 from the balcony of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel with other honored guests.

The scouts marched to the capital where Jeff had his picture taken with the governor and then to the House of Representatives where the meeting was held and Gov. Briscoe made a speech.

Jeff received a certificate for his selection as Honored Cub Scout.

Redfish Stretch Food Dollars

AUSTIN

A quick trip to the nearest seafood store should convince homemakers that now's a good time to eat more seafood.

Fish, especially redfish, is abundant from February to June, according to Rocille Campbell, seafood home economist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. As a result, the price should be to the liking of most homemakers.

One point to remember about redfish , according to Miss Campbell, is that price does not determine quality or value of the species. Redfish is one of the less expensive fresh seafoods because of abundant supply available in Texas.

The average market size of whole redfish is about 16 inches long. Their weight triples from the time they are 12 inches to the time they are 16 inches long.

The versatility of redfish is demonstrated by the wide variety of recipes in which they can be used.

Fried seafood has been a favorite of Texans for a long time. Here is a recipe that puts a twist to a good old-fashioned fish fry -- you use buttermilk. This and other recipes are available by sending a postcard with your name and address to Seafood, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building Austin, Texas 78701

BUTTERMILK FRIED FILLETS

2 pounds skinless redfish, or other fresh fillets
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup biscuit mix
2 teaspoons salt

Cut fillets into serving-size portions. Place fillets in a single layer in a shallow dish. Pour buttermilk over fillets and let stand for 30 minutes, turning once. Combine biscuit mix and sale. Remove fillets from buttermilk and roll in biscuit mix. Fry in moderately hot fat for 4 to 5 minutes or until brown. Turn carefully and fry 4-5 minutes longer or until fish is brown and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Makes six servings.

CRAFTY IDEAS

CLAY TIME

What's more creative than clay? Clay that isn't clay--that is, the kind that you can create in your own kitchen and turn into ceramic-like objets d'art in minutes!

To cook up a batch of this creative clay, combine two cups of baking soda and one cup of Argo Corn Starch in a saucepan. Stir in 1¼ cups of cold water until smooth. (For colored clay, tint the water with food coloring.) Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches a slightly moist, mashed potato consistency. Remove from heat, turn out on a plate and cover with a damp cloth until cool enough to handle. Knead it like dough and shape as desired. Store any excess in a tightly closed plastic bag.

You can sculpt it, mold it, cut it with a cookie cutter, bend it into bowls, ashtrays, dishes, spoon rests, creative art or almost anything else, and even make it into beads. You can get around to that by simply shaping bits of clay into small balls or ovals and piercing them with a pin. Set objects on a protected surface to dry and harden overnight at room temperature. They'll dry white (unless tinted) and can be painted.

Abelard' Production Starts

Valentine Snacks Say 'Love'

By Chris Holcombe

"Valentines" know it's love when you serve them nutritious snacks.

With between-meal eating so popular, snack foods greatly influence a person's diet.

Properly chosen, they round out the daily diet by furnishing nutrients otherwise lacking in meals.

Yet too many -- or the wrong kind of snacks -- result in extra calories and weight gain. Low-calorie snacks, on the other hand, actually aid weight reduction by providing a 'tie-over' between smaller meals.

Noting that the average American's diet lacks iron, calcium and vitamins A and C try choosing Valentine snacks to supply these nutrients.

For example, dried fruits, nuts and enriched, whole-grain cereal products are high in iron. Thus, oatmeal-raisin cookies, supplemented with a glass of milk, furnish iron and calcium.

Other calcium-rich snacks include ice cream, fruit flavored milk drinks, milkshakes and cheese cubes.

For vitamins A and C, reach for fruits and vegetables. Oranges and grapefruit make good between-meal snacks, and -- like all citrus fruits contain lots of vitamin C.

Apricots, peaches, carrot strips, watermelon and cantaloupe supply vitamin A.

So does milk -- which has an added bonus of other valuable nutrients.

Avoid such snacks as candy items, snack chips and many popular beverages. These empty-calorie foods contain lots of calories but few nutrients.

Ever since George Washington took a hatchet to his father's cherry tree, cherries have been an American tradition. During February -- the month of his birthday -- bright red, tart cherries as well as dark and light sweet cherries are an institution.

DR. ROBERT BROWN monitors special laboratory equipment used in the nuclear systems technology program at State Tech. State Tech photo.

Nuclear Power Logical Answer

Nuclear power is emerging as the logical answer to the energy crisis, according to Dr. Robert J. (Bob) Brown, chairman of the nuclear systems technology program at the James Connally Campus of the Texas State Technical Institute.

Brown, a native of Gatesville, is the first chairman of the nuclear systems program, which was begun last fall. The two-year program, the only one of its kind in the state and one of only a few in the nation, prepares students to be nuclear technicians in industry, medicine and other fields.

Technicians are needed, Brown said, because experts predict that by the year 2000 America will get about 50 per cent of its electricity from nuclear energy.

Such an output, Brown said, would require about a thousand nuclear power plants, each employing about 50 technicians.

Present-day nuclear power plants use reactors known as fission reactors, which split uranium atoms, releasing energy that heats water, producing steam that drives generators, producing electricity.

However, Brown said, researchers have discovered a new type of reactor called a breeder reactor, which when fed a certain combination of fuel ingredients, produces new uranium as a by-product, providing a constant supply of fuel.

Brown predicts that breeder reactors will be the next step in the development of nuclear energy.

A third step, he said, may involve the use of a different type of reactor, called a fusion reactor, which produces energy by combingin atoms instead of splitting them.

Realization of these next two steps could come before the year 2000, Brown said.

Energy from such sophisticated nuclear plants probably would be used primarily for industrial and electrical power, Brown said. Using nuclear energy to power automobiles does not seem practical now because reactors weigh too much.

Hydrogen may be the future source of energy for powering automobiles and heating homes, if a cheap way can be found to remove it from water, Brown said.

Research has shown that hydrogen can be taken out of water if the water is heated. And, since nuclear power plants heat water anyway to produce steam, they could produce hydrogen fuel as a by-product , Brown said.

Giant Balloon Replaces Satellite

By Leonard Santorelli

NEW YORK

Reuter -- An American electrical company has hit upon a "poor man's satellite" that can relay radio programs and phone calls over hundreds of miles to remote areas of emerging countries.

The answer, it says, is a giant balloon.

The balloon, which looks like a floating blimp of the 1920's , is tethered two or three miles above ground. In its belly is a complete system of electronic communications.

This system picks up the radio signal or telephone call from the ground and can send it out over a distance of 250 miles at a fraction of the cost of a satellite or broadcasting tower.

The balloon, called an Aerostat, is being developed by a subsidiary of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Tethered Communications TCOM). It is undergoing final tests on Grand Bahama Island.

TCOM says their balloon can broadcast over an area the size of the state of Ohio and it would take 15 conventional towers to cover the same ground.

A network of Aerostats would be able to transmit from one to another sending messages across thousands of miles of jungle or desert to remote villages, a spokesman for TCOM said.

Besides radio and telephone relays, the system can transmit TV shows (including color), teletype and telephoto messages, even ship-to-shore broadcasts.

TCOM are reluctant to go into the financial aspects of their invention, but say one of the balloons would cost only a tenth of the price of a land tower, and a tiny fraction of the cost of a satellite.

The spokesman said interest has already come from about 20 countries, mostly in southeast Asia, Africa, and the Middle East. He declined to name them as it might jeopardize negotiations. He added that South Korea had purchased one.

One of the advantages of the system, he added, was that if a country already had conventional broadcast towers, they can get a tremendous boost in power by simply tying in with an Aerostate. The existing towers would not be redundant.

TCOM says they are designed to withstand the strains of storms and hurricanes. If they are punctured by a high-flying sharp-beaked bird, the hole will seal itself.

The balloon, which is unmanned and made of layers of plasticized fabric, is over half the length of a football field and the tail fins are the height of a seven-story building.

The whole thing, balloon and electronic equipment, can be transported in a few trucks to its site where the Aerostat will be inflated with non-inflammable helium until it slowly starts floating.

Speedy Pork Chops

A dramatic decrease in the time required to grow meat animals has helped producers keep pace with the soaring demands of our nation's population growth combined with its ever-increasing appetite for meat. For example, the time required to produce a market weight hog from birth has been cut by two-thirds—from approximately 18 months to a mere six. Advancing technology in scientific breeding and feeding has made it possible.

Hidden Treasures

It looks good and it tastes great, but what diners don't see is important too — the valuable nutrients built in pork that help keep the body healthy. Today's lean-bred, well-trimmed pork is an excellent source of high quality protein, B vitamins (especially thiamin, necessary for healthy nerves) and essential minerals, including iron. Nowadays you can count on fewer calories and more nutrients per serving with pork — an impressive food.

The Consumer Alert

Most merchants are truthful in their advertising, and straightforward in their sales techniques.

They strive to describe accurately the products and services they offer, and instruct their sales representatives to allow you to make your independent decisions about merchandise, free from high-pressure techniques.

They plan to be in business in their communities for a long time, and know that very small percentage of merchants who subscribe to unfair or deceptive business practices tend to acquire only one-time customers.

Those ads that begin "It's just too good to be true . . . "usually are just that.

People may respond to such ads, but if they feel victimized by misleading advertisers, they'll pass the word around. Eventually, those businesses will run through customers, and have to close.

It's the job of the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division and of local district and county attorneys to shorten that cycle as much as possible. And it's the intent of this column to put consumers on notice so they will be informed, and less likely to fall prey to unscrupulous business practices.

The 1973 Texas Deceptive Trade Practices - Consumer Protection Act prohibits false, misleading and deceptive trade practices unconscionable actions, and breaches of warranty, and gives injured consumers the right to file private suit.

But how can consumers, or businessmen, tell what types of advertising may be permitted or prohibited?

The act includes a "laundry list" of 19 practices which are prohibited specifically. And it says that the body of case law built up over several decades of cases handled by the Federal Trade Commission will serve as a guide.

Six Flags Plans Theater

A new "home" is being built at Six Flags Over Texas for the top names in show business.

It's a half-million-dollar amphitheater which will seat more than 4,000 persons.

The new facility, located between Six Flags' landmark Oil Derrick and the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike, will be the setting for a series of concerts by nationally-known performers during the Parks' 1974 season.

General Manager Bob Freeman said, "Last year we adopted the slogan 'Entertainment Capital of Texas,' and presented more than thirty name entertainment acts. In 1974 -- working in a spacious, new theater -- we plan to do much more."

Performers presented last season included such names as Bill Cosby, Charley Pride, Mac Davis, Charlie Rich and the late Jim Croce.

Freeman said most of the concerts will, as in the past, be presented on Friday nights. He said the Park will continue its policy of making no extra charge for the special concerts.

The amphitheater, featuring specially - designed sound and lighting systems, is set for completion prior to the Park's opening on March 15.

Freeman said the show facility is the largest, single phase of an extensive improvement program for the 1974 season.

"The entire Park is being refurbished," he said, "with attention given to everything from paint, to paving, to landscaping.

"Our guests are going to see changes throughout the grounds."

The forthcoming season will be the thirteenth for the big theme park. More than 2,000,000 visitors are expected.

ACCENT ON HEALTH

Almost everyone has come to accept the loss of teeth as inevitable but -- like polio -- tooth decay can be prevented with proper care.

This week is National Children's Dental Health Week, and the State Health Department joins in the observance. Through its dental public health programs, the Health Department is helping provide dental education and dental care for youngsters throughout the state.

The week is a good opportunity to remind everyone that good dental health doesn't come automatically or by chance. Your dental health depends on keeping your teeth clean, observing good nutritional habits, and taking full advantage of the professional services your family dentist can provide.

Keeping your teeth clean is the first step, according to State Health Department authorities. Almost all dental disease begins with the accumulation of certain kinds of bacteria on the teeth. The colonies of bacteria are called "dental plaque" and they can cause both tooth decay and gum disease. But if you remove the plaque at least once every day, through careful brushing and the proper use of dental floss, the bacteria won't have a chance to do their dirty work.

Another way to reduce dental disease is through proper diet. Dental bacteria use the sugar from the foods you eat to produce acids which actually eat through the enamel of your teeth, producing decay. The same bacteria also produce irritants which can infect your gums, causing swelling and soreness. If the infection isn't stopped in time, the disease reaches the underlying bone, causing the teeth to become loose and fall out. In fact, according to the American Dental Association, gum disease causes the loss of more natural teeth for adults than does tooth decay.

The best way to control the disease - causing bacteria is simply to avoid eating too many sugary, sweet snacks, particularly between meals. The more often sugary snacks are eaten daily, the higher the risk of serious dental disease. Sweet foods that are held in the mouth for a long time, such as cough drops, breath mints and hard candies, can be particularly damaging.

DPS Force One Of Most Professional

By Bill Hobby

We in Texas are fortunate indeed to be served by one of the most professional state law enforcement agencies in the country.

The professionalism of the more than 2,300 officers of our Department of Public Safety is no accident. It is the result of four and a half decades of pioneering methods in educating lawmen.

We owe the major portion of our thanks to the late D.P.S. Director Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr. Since he was a member of the first highway partol school in 1930, Col Garrison was a strong advocate of sound training programs for prospective officers.

In 1956, Garrison moved the D.P.S. Academy - which now bears his name to its present site in Austin. Prior to that, the police classes were conducted at Camp Mabry in Austin.

In addition to training more than 4,000 highway patrolmen, the academy over the years has upgraded the qualifications of more than 17,000 city and county officers through extension and on-campus courses.

D. P. S. cadets currently receive more than 800 hours of instruction during an 18-week course. The training program has been broadened to allow graduates to receive college credits for their work.

THE QUEST FOR NEW TRAILS
The history of man is a story of progress. Each of its thousands of volumes could bear one common title: The Quest for New Trails.
Even in childhood we display this strange genius which has brought us from primeval forests to this atomic age. We love to penetrate the untouched spaces . . . to open trails where none have ever been.
But this quest could destroy us more rapidly than it has profited us. History recounts the fall of many a civilization too busy with its search for new trails to understand its deeper needs.
For man can truly progress only when his spiritual growth keeps pace with his cultural and scientific advancemeht.
Or, bluntly, the future of this young Arctic explorer and of his world depends on the Church. The truths of God are unchanging—and ever more essential—as we seek new trails into the Unknown.

Missionaries To Speak At Church

Rev. Don Exley, pastor of First Assembly of God, announces that musionaries to the Philippines Rev. and Mrs. Glenn Dunn will speak in the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Dunn will tell of missionary work among lowland Filipino settlers, Moslems and people of the pagan aboriginal tribes in the mountains of Mindanao Island. They will also show colorful costumes and artifacts of these people.

Rev. Dunn is a graduate of Southwestern Assemblies of God College, Texas Christian University and the University of Texas. The Dunns are among the 1086 foreign missionaries of the General Council of the Assemblies of God. Since 1935 Rev. and Mrs. Dunn have served two terms in China and the rest of the time in the Philippines. They expect to return to the Philippines in April.

For the past eight years Rev. Dunn has been president of the Assemblies of God Bible Institute in Mindanano, one of 104 Assemblies of God ministers training schools in 59 countries. Part of the students of this school are converts from six aboriginal tribes. Some of these are located only a few miles from the newly discovered stone age Tasaday Tribe.

First Assembly of God is located at 1511 No. Houston. Pastor Exley extends a cordial welcome to everyone.

Out Of Final Play-offs

Ducks Down Yoemen

The Cameron Yoemen ended an otherwise successful season Tuesday night in Cameron as the Taylor Ducks used an impressive offense to upset the Yoemen, 63-54. The action was during the first round of the District 12-AAA play-offs.

Probably one of the determining factors in the game was the amount of free throws made by each team. Cameron made only 4 out of 8 for 50 percent, and the Ducks hit 21 out of 26 for an 80 percent average.

As one can see, the game was full of fouls, but Cameron was the only team that had players foul out. Two Yoe players had to leave the game in the fourth quarter, but it made little difference because the Ducks had a 13 point lead at the time.

For the first time Yoe fans saw a team equal the rebounding strength of the Yoemen, if not completely dominate it. This proved to be almost the total work of 6' 6'' Mark Burkhart who pulled down Taylor rebounds all night long.

First quarter action saw Cameron fall to a 14-8 slashing. However, with 4 minutes remaining the Yoemen, aided by 6 points by Ronnie Bennett, paced the Ducks at 8-8.

At this time 2 of the 6 Yoemen first quarter fouls occurred, and Taylor's Burkhart went to the foul line. Burkhart sank all four charity shots, and later dumped in a basket to give Taylor the 6 point first quarter lead.

Second quarter action picked up for the Yoemen as they outscored the Ducks 22-20. However, the effort only moved Cameron within 4 points of Taylor, and the Ducks went in at halftime with a 34-30 lead.

In third quarter action the Yoemen were stunned by a calm and cool Duck team who returned to the court with total domination in mind. Taylor scored 8 points in the first two and a half minutes of play, and held Cameron scoreless.

The Yoemen finally broke the ice and lit the scoreboard after three minutes had ticked away, but Taylor had already started the lead that the Yoemen were never able to make up.

The Ducks ended the third period of play with a 48-36 lead.

During the fourth quarter the Yoemen tried desperately to keep their cool, but Taylor was equally set on keeping theirs. The Yoemen managed to pull within 6 points of the Ducks with only two and a half minutes remaining in the game.

The Ducks then again went to work, and seemed almost unstopable as they rebuilt their lead. They held it until the buzzer sounded, and then walk away with the 63-54 victory.

Ronnie Bennett was the leading scorer for the Yoemen with 22 points, Micheal White, Gary Hornung, John Barron, and Troy Daniels tossed in 6 each, Kenneth Scott had 4, and Randy Sapp and Harry Brooks scored 2 each.

Mark Burkhart was the high pointer for Taylor with 20, Ronnie Houston had 15, Elroy Stoglin 11, Ronnie Featherson 8, Brad Ross 7, and Anthony Martin 2.

The Taylor victory advances them to a showdown with Rockdale this Friday night to determine the champion of District 12-AAA.

Rogers Girls Down Hutto Saturday

The Rogers girls defeated Hutto, 60-40, Saturday night in a practice basketball game in Rogers. Rogers is the District 21-A champion, and the game was intended as a warm-up for the play-offs.

Rogers led 38-22 at halftime, and continued their winning effort in the last half to take the victory.

Sulack led Rogers in scoring with 22 points and Wilde had 20.

In the junior high game, Rogers won again by a 60-15 margin. Tammy Gerza led the junior team with 18 points.

Academy Girls Fall To Crawford

The Academy girls basketball team closed out a successful season Monday night in Waco as the Crawford Pirettes handed them a 61-45 loss.

The victory gave Crawford the District 54-B title, and the right to compete in Saturday's regional tournament in San Maros.

Crawford led throughout the game and went in at halftime with a 32-12 lead. Crawford continued their effort through the third quarter, outscoring Academy 21-19.

However, Academy did play a stronger second half, but the Crawford lead was too much to overcome.

Hoehn led Crawford in their winning effort with 28 points, Holmes had 17, Westerfield 11, Behringer 3, and Davis 1.

Tschoerner was the leading scorer for Academy with 22, Cortese tossed in 17, and Tomlin had 6.

Rockdale Wins Over Gatesville

The Rockdale Tigers, winners of the south zone, defeated the Gatesville Hornets 62-39 in the semi-finals playoffs of District 12-AAA Tuesday night at Rockdale.

Big Parker Peeples led scoring as the Tigers combined a quick defense with the shooting of Peeples to jump to a 9-0 lead. They expanded their margin to 35-14 at half time.

Gary Locklin yanked down 12 rebounds to control the boards for the Tigers. Nine of his rebounds came in the first half.

Johnny Gann dropped in 15 points to pace the Hornets offensive efforts, but the north zone runner-up were never in it after the Tigers' quick start.

Hunter Casualties Show Decrease

Theron Carroll of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Hunter Safety Program has the sad task of compiling a hunter casualty report this time every year.

The 1973 report is a little better, however, than last year's: 80 accidents versus 85 for 1972.

Fatalities and the number of people involved in hunting accidents are also down from last season. Some 116 persons were involved in accidents this year with 22 fatalities.

In 1972, 130 persons were accident victims with 30 fatalities.

Of this year's figure, 22 of the persons involved were 16 years of age or younger.

According to Carroll, 20 of this year's accidents could be blamed on "hunter judgement."

"Most of these mishaps," he said, "might have been prevented if the victims had been wearing hunter orange or some other identifying clothing."

At present, Texas has no laws requiring hunters to wear articles of clothing which make them stand out against the autumn background.

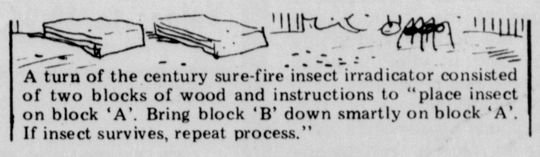
However, heading the list of accidents are those classified as the result of violating laws or rules of hunter safety.

"Here is where the Parks and Wildlife Department comes in," said Carroll.

"Our Volunteer Hunter Safety Program is entering its third year and the instructors have taught some 7,000 Texans of all ages the basics of handling firearms and safe hunting."

The Hunter Safety Program is open to anyone 12 years of age or older.

Contact your local game warden for the name and address of the instructor in your area.



A turn of the century sure-fire insect irradicator consisted of two blocks of wood and instructions to "place insect on block 'A'. Bring block 'B' down smartly on block 'A'. If insect survives, repeat process."

BROYLES ACTIVE IN TEXAS

Arkansas Frank Broyles supposedly was concertedly seeking only six Homestate football recruits. Figures, since Frantic Frank stepped up his Texas recruiting considerably . . . What happened to that Aggie basketball dynasty? Few Years ago, Houston writers were saying the Brazos Bottom school had rounded up an indoor Bear Bryant in Cowpoke Humorist Shelby Metcalf. But, alas, Shelby's aggies have found a way to lose most of their SWC title runs.

Speaking of folks not used to adversity, Sam Houston State's basketball team has the Huntsville Faithful talking about football once more after drooping three straight . . . Loud Mouth Barry Switzer, Oklahoma's Coaching Clod, has begun to turn off people who count. First, the National Football Coaches refused to consider him as "Coach-of-the-Year" (because his Sooner team was on NCAA Probation) to howls from Switzer himself. The, he drove off Donald Forte, a Tyler JC Running Maching he'd already signed, by being quoted as telling Tyler Schoolboy Earl-Campbell he should come to Oklahoma, "Because I haven't signed a quality running back this year." "I consider myself 'quality' ", said Forte, the Jaycee All-american, as he switched allegiance to Arkansas. Old Fearless Switzer immediately said he was misquoted.

LOADED AGGIES:

One SWC Coach film clips of his football team in action against the Texas Aggies, said of Emory Bellard's College Station Talent Pool: "Gentlemen, they (The Aggies) have more quality talent than any other school in the SWC" . . . Next Super College Coach? Keep an eye on Fred Akers, Darrell Royal's UT backfield coach. Fred, who left the Edinburg HS job to join Royal in 1968, is in impressive young man. Some UT insiders say Akers could succeed Royal in the future.

After being a hotbed of recruiting activity last fall, Beaumont area has been quiet this time around. Incidentally, trust you saw where Ronnie Rogers, the Beaumont Flash, flunked out of A&M. It was Rogers the Aggies hid out, amid much publicity, to keep him from signing with Texas to whom he had committed the night before.
